The Central Florida Expressway Authority (CFX) is an independent, locally-controlled toll agency responsible for construction, maintenance and operation of 118 miles of expressway. CFX serves more than 3 million residents in five counties, plus an estimated 75 million visitors each year.

CFX's 10-member Board is made up of a representative from Brevard, Lake, Orange, Osceola, and Seminole county commissions, the mayors of Orlando and Orange County and three governor's appointees. Florida's Turnpike Enterprise serves as a non-voting adviser to the Board.

Public meetings are held monthly, and meeting schedules are posted on CFXway.com.

Quality of Life
- $143M estimated savings in reduced accident costs
- $700M in wages and income

Business Savings
- $334M in annual travel time per household
- $22.3M in cumulative travel time savings annually
- 11% in regional economic benefits
- More than 32,000 local jobs

CFX reinvests toll revenue in Central Florida. Here's where those toll dollars go:

Technology, Innovation & Collaboration
- Advancing the future of mobility, working with:
  - The University of Central Florida to develop and install technology to prevent wrong-way driving
  - Scanning technology that clears accidents faster
  - Communications technology that reduces lane closures and reduces the risk of secondary accidents

- FDOT & City of Orlando on autonomous vehicle research
  - E-ZPass Group to ease multi-state toll travel

- CFX is working to integrate multi-modal transportation into its expressways, including:
  - Right-of-way access on S.R. 528 to Virgin Trains (formerly Brightline) Miami-Orlando passenger rail service.
  - Potential express bus routes, or Bus Rapid Transit, along with transit-support facilities such as park and ride lots along S.R. 408 and S.R. 528.
finally, one toll pass. 18 states.
