CFX AT A GLANCE

The Central Florida Expressway Authority (CFX) is an independent, locally-controlled toll agency responsible for construction, maintenance and operation of 125 miles of expressway.

CFX serves more than 3 million residents in five counties, plus an estimated 75 million visitors each year. Established in 2014 as a regional expressway authority; membership includes the City of Orlando, and Brevard, Lake, Orange, Osceola, and Seminole counties.

All CFX operations are funded solely by tolls - CFX does not receive state or federal tax dollars. Toll collected on CFX expressways are reinvested locally, funding the maintenance, operations and construction of our expressway system.

CENTRAL FLORIDA EXPRESSWAY AUTHORITY

Florida's Turnpike Enterprise serves as a non-voting adviser to the Board. Public meetings give residents the opportunity to participate and are held monthly.
